

Marshall University

Marshall Digital Scholar

The Parthenon

University Archives

Fall 10-28-1981

The Parthenon, October 28, 1981

Marshall University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon>

Recommended Citation

Marshall University, "The Parthenon, October 28, 1981" (1981). The Parthenon. 1835.
<https://mds.marshall.edu/parthenon/1835>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Parthenon by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu, beachgr@marshall.edu.

THE PARTHENON

Marshall University

Huntington, W.Va. 25701

Wednesday, October 28, 1981

Vol. 82 No. 28

Grant to aid teaching of handicapped

By Mike Graham

Marshall teachers are going to learn how to instruct handicapped students under a federal grant, Dr. Arthur S. Maynard, assistant professor of education, said.

The U.S. Department of Education has awarded a $78,000 grant to the Southern West Virginia Deans' Grant Consortium, a newly-formed association established this fall to assist member colleges and universities in revising methods of teaching the handicapped in regular classroom settings.

Statement appalling senator says

By Greg Friel

A statement made by the student body president last week that Student Government's real power does not come from students is "appalling," Sen. Charles R. "Rusty" Webb said Monday.

Webb, Madison junior, said he strongly disagreed with a quote attributed to Student Body President Marc E. Williams in the Oct. 22 issue of The Parthenon. Williams had said, "The power of Student Government comes from the university administration and the Board of Regents, not the students."

"It is one of the most undemocratic statements I've ever heard," Webb said.

"Without students I cannot perceive an effective Student Government," he said. "If Student Government does not have the support of the students it cannot exist."

Williams, Huntington senior, said he merely was being a realist about Student Government's position when he made the comment. "What I meant by that quote was that even if we had 100 percent cooperation from students, if the university administration did not give us a chance to have an input in decisions, we couldn't do anything," he said.

Williams said the power of Student Government is invested by the university administration and, ultimately, by the Board of Regents because Student Government is a division of Student Affairs and is under the auspices of that office.

The Board of Regents has among its powers the right to supervise the financial, educational and business policies of state colleges and universities.

"Student Government is not like a regular democracy," Williams said. "We're an administrative government body."

Webb said he hoped the remarks by Williams would not "turn back the clock" on Student Government's achievements.

"After a remark like that, I hope that we don't lose the respect for Student Government that Marc (Williams) and Maynard, who is the coordinator of the association at Marshall, said its immediate goal is to accomplish an awareness of the handicapped and their needs.

"Right now, we are dealing with faculty training in an attempt to evaluate teacher preparation for handling handicapped students' needs," Maynard said.

"We are evaluating teachers to see if they are able to deal with teaching the handicapped in a mainstream setting," he said.

Members of the grant consortium are

Bluefield State College, Concord College, Glenville State College, Marshall University, University of Charleston, West Virginia College of Graduate Studies, West Virginia State College and West Virginia Institute of Technology.

Five representatives from each school comprise the association and are involved in assessing existing courses to determine areas of needs and developing recommendations to meet those needs.

"Each school's representatives will return to their institution and share the information with other faculty members," Maynard said.

Visits to other states to see how problems are handled by other institutions also are planned, Maynard said. There are plans to develop a resource center at Marshall with materials related to teaching the handicapped available for faculty and student use.

"We want to develop a program to be used in mainstream teaching by the teachers and students alike," he said.

"We hope to have audio-visual material available at the center for this type of program," he said. "Filmstrips and

Continued on page 3

Fire drill

Greg Carroll, Hurricane senior, takes the opportunity of a fire drill in Smith Hall yesterday to read The Parthenon. Photo by Meria Dawson Broomes.

Revenue bonds being paid on schedule

By Leskie Pinson

Marshall's revenue bonds are being paid on schedule, according to Karl J. Egnatoff, vice president of administration. "We haven't had, and foresee, no trouble in paying off the bonds," Egnatoff said. The buildings built with revenue bonds are the residence halls and the Memorial Student Center.

"With revenue bonds the debt is paid off by money that is generated by the use of those buildings," Egnatoff said. "The fees students pay for the buildings each year go toward the bonds."

"The amount Marshall pays each year on the student center bond is $282,000," Warren S. Myers, director of auxiliary services, said. "This is a forty year bond that is targeted to be paid off in the year 2009."

"The housing bond is $950,004 a year. Being a thirty year bond this bond is expected to mature in the year 2001," Myers said.

These bonds may mature early.

"As the interest rate increases the money we have gains more money that goes toward paying the bonds," he said. "This could cause the maturity date to come sooner."

Though Marshall must make these payments each year, the university is not actually in debt," Egnatoff said.

"The money put up on the bonds is private money," he said. "The bonds are sold to various individuals and

Continued on page 3

Expenses approximately $2,500

Mardi Gras Ball ticket sales total $1,520

Ticket sales for the Mardi Gras Ball homecoming dance Saturday night totaled $1,520, according to Gail DiSabitino, coordinator of student activities and organizations.

DiSabitino said 303 couple tickets and several single tickets were sold. Approximately $400 worth were sold at the door, she said.

The dance stayed within budget, DiSabitino said, but the dance committee took in about $200 less at the door than they anticipated.

"We didn't overspend it was just that our revenue was less than planned," she said.

Expenses for the dance totaled approximately $2,500. DiSabitino said $980 was subsidized by the office of Student Activities.

Photographer John Gebler, Shepherdstown senior, said 87 couples had their pictures taken. He said they will be ready in three to four weeks. Announcements concerning the distribution of the pictures will be made later.

Music for the dance was provided by the Kentucky band BBC. Homecoming committee chairman Tina L. Hardman, Weston senior, said she thought the students' reaction to the band was "pretty good."

Dance committee chairman Jeanne S. Verdine, Beckley junior, said, "I think the general consensus was that everybody liked them."

Hardman said she thought the students enjoyed breaking the pinatas and other activities at the dance.

"I think any time you can offer the students something that's never been tried before, they're pleased you've gone out of your way to accommodate them and they're pretty good at participating," she said.

"Positive feelings about the whole week were culminated by the dance," DiSabitino said.

FOR THE RECORD

Disagreements become learning experiences

So far this year, The Parthenon has become involved in disagreements with two major groups on campus. While we never sought those confrontations, in both cases they turned out to be valuable learning experiences.

In the first instance, The Parthenon disagreed with the administration over provisions in the West Virginia Freedom of Information Act. It began as an honest disagreement and fortunately ended the same way.

The administration carried out no retribution against The Parthenon or any of its staff members. In fact, President Robert B. Hayes assured us no one would be punished.

The administration took action. Training sessions were conducted and plans were developed for drawing up a policy to deal with information requests.

The administration has been extremely cooperative since the disagreement. In fact, several administrators have gone above and beyond the call of duty in providing us with the information requested.

While we may have disagreed with university officials including President Hayes, the way they handled this issue has only reaffirmed our confidence in the leadership of Marshall University.

Our second disagreement was with Student Government concerning election procedures. Again, we thought it was an honest disagreement, but this time we are afraid it is not going to end that way.

There have been hints that Student Body President Marc Williams is considering retribution against The Parthenon through his four appointees to the committee that will consider our fee increase request.

If so, Williams may be successful in that attempt. Certainly we would not be asking for an increase unless we needed it. The loss of that money might harm us. Selling out our principles in order to get it would be even more costly.

Obscene notes have been placed under a staff member's door.

Such actions deserve no further comment.

Williams is seeking a meeting with Dr. Deryl Leaming, director of the W. Page Pitt School of Journalism. We assume Williams will discuss what can be done about The Parthenon.

While Williams may not understand the First Amendment and student press rights, Leaming certainly does. We hope the meeting will be an educational one for the student body president.

Election Commissioner Mike Queen is seeking to implement a no comment policy between Student Government officials and Parthenon reporters. Again, we are not concerned. Student Government's silence may make our job more difficult, but we will continue our normal coverage.

This action, like the others, we consider quite childish. Besides, we sincerely doubt Queen will be able to go very long without making a comment.

The contrast between how the administration and how Student Government handled these disagreements is not only obvious, but disheartening.

As students, we have often advocated greater student influence over the decision making processes at Marshall. Based upon recent events, we can only be thankful that the administration is presently not in the hands of students.

If Student Government leaders want to have their power on campus, we suggest they learn to use their current power constructively rather than destructively.

RHGA votes to support BACCHUS, wine policy

By Donna Cox

Residence Hall Government voted to take action on three issues during their Monday night weekly meeting, according to Debbie Chandler, Charleston junior and RHGA president.

RHGA voted to support the efforts of Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students, or BACCHUS, to get a wine policy, like the beer policy, passed in the residence halls; they voted in favor of drawing up a request for higher education resource funds and they also voted to draw up a proposal for a mandatory RHGA fee, Chandler said.

Charles W. Moore, St. Albans senior and BACCHUS president said 6 percent of Marshall students use wine for religious or social reasons and 4 percent of those live in the residence halls.

"Getting the wine policy passed will not be an easy job," Moore said. "I want Hayes to see it as a rational proposal made by mature young adults who can handle it."

BACCHUS is an alcohol awareness group for responsible drinking at Marshall, Moore said.

"If the proposal requesting higher education resources funds is approved, each residence hall would receive as much as $200 a semester for special activities," Chandler said.

Currently and in the past RHGA has been allotted $3,000 annually, Chandler said. There now is $1,900 to last the rest of the year, out of which will come $700 for the RHGA dance, and HERF and a mandatory RHGA fee will help to alleviate financial pressure, Chandler said.

The RHGA fee wouldn't exceed $5 and it would be included in the first housing installment, Chandler said.

"If everyone had to pay they would expect more from RHGA and more programs could be offered," Chandler said.

St. Augustine's Episcopal Mission

HOLY EUCHARIST

Thursdays at 9:15 p.m. Campus Christian Center

Rev. E. Moray Peoples, Jr., Vicar

Ms. Cheryl Winter, Lay Assistant

Quiet worship at the close of the day

Open to all people

Need Quick Cash?

THE PAWN & COIN SHOP

WE SELL DIAMONDS AT THE LOWEST PRICE IN TOWN.
HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR GOLD, SILVER & CLASS RINGS

1602 THIRD AVENUE
HUNTINGTON, WV 25701
(304) 523-1048

1215 ADAMS AVENUE
HUNTINGTON, WV 25704
(304) 529-4411

THE JAIL

2127 3rd Ave.

Country Western Night

LADIES ADMITTED FREE
TUESDAY-SUNDAY

Fri. - Sat.
Party Night

50¢ Draft Beer

The Tri-States Most Unique Club

Thurs.
Oldies Night
50's - 60's

Now comes Miller time.

Grant

Continued from page 1

literature are extremely effective in an experience like this."

The association has conducted a needs assessment study and expects the results sometime next spring, Maynard said. They distributed questionnaires to 4,000 graduates and undergraduates around the state to define problem areas.

"What we are trying to do is discover what are the actual problems in this situation on a day-to-day basis," he said. "It is important that teachers understand the students' problems in order to determine the best learning and teaching techniques."

"There is a tendency to generalize with these problems," he said, "but really each student's needs are different. Not only will teachers need to be prepared to help handicapped students to adjust, but also to help other students adapt to a handicapped student's presence."

The consortium project director is Dr. Phillip J. Rusche, dean of the Marshall College of Education.

Representatives from Marshall to the association are:

Dr. Jack Jervis, professor of education; Dr. Charles W. Cox, assistant professor of social studies; Dr. Ronald Crosbie, assistant professor of health, physical education and recreation, and Dr. Clifford R. Schneider, assistant professor of education.

Statement

Continued from page 1

constituents were upset at Williams' remarks. One of those constituents called the statement by Williams "totalitarian," he said.

"I would hope from now on that he (Williams) would think before he made such statements," Webb said.

Williams said that, based upon reports of Webb's criticism, he did not believe the senator had a good understanding of the position of Student Government.

Although Williams said the power of Student Government did not come directly from students, he said the organization still needs student support.

"It's true that our legitimacy is hurt by a lack of student support," Williams said.

However, he said the amount of student input in Student Government should not be measured by the voter turnout in elections, but rather by the number of students taking advantage of Student Government services.

The Oct. 1 Student Senate election drew less than 5 percent of eligible voters to the polls. About 8.6 percent of eligible students voted in a "dead week" referendum Oct. 15.

Revenue

Continued from page 1

investors."

The Henderson Center is being financed in a slightly different way, according to Richard D. Vass, director of finance.

"The Henderson Center is paid by the Board of Regents with money collected from state-wide tuitions from all the state colleges and universities," Vass said. "The Regents decide where the priorities are and spend the money in that way."

"The distinction between the bonds for the Henderson Center and the ones for the residence halls and student center is that the Henderson Center is handled at the state level, while the other is paid by locally generated revenue," Vass said.

Richard who?

Anonymity not bothering vice president

By Brent Archer

Richard who?

This seems to be the reaction when the topic of student body vice president comes up in conversation. But Richard Shell said he doesn't mind being anonymous.

"I get personal satisfaction because I know I do things," he said. "Not being in the limelight doesn't bother me."

Shell, Mathias senior, said the lack of recognition the vice president of any organization receives is because of the prestige of the office of president.

"When any group has a meeting and needs a speaker, the president and not the vice president is almost always asked," he said.

Despite the anonymity of the position, being vice president of the student body involves a lot of work, Shell said. He said some of his most important duties this year include coordinating a student health insurance program and serving as the presiding officer at cabinet meetings.

Shell said the Student Government constitution does not define the duties of the vice president, but he believes his primary responsibility is to back up the president.

This, however, does not make his position symbolic, Shell said.

"It's not a figurehead position," he said. "I'm an active member of Student Government."

Shell said he is not discouraged by the lack of recognition he receives for his efforts.

"I don't feel I have to be recognized for everything I do," he said. "I know I do things, and the people who are close to me know it—that's enough."

Shell, a finance major, said he spends about 25 hours each week carrying out his duties, but rather than having a destructive effect, he said the extra work has helped him.

"It's helped me budget my time," he said. "I use my time much more wisely because I know I have so much to do and I have to get it all done."

In addition to the personal satisfaction he receives, Shell said being vice president has been a growing experience.

"I've gained much more self-confidence through speaking in public and I'm not afraid to assume responsibility," he said.

Shell said he decided to run for office out of a desire to become involved in improving the university for the students.

"It's not the political aspects that interest me," he said. "I saw this as a chance to get involved and become a spokesman for various concerned groups on campus."

HELP US
STRIKE OUT
BIRTH DEFECTS
MARCH
OF DIMES

The Monarch
Café
2050 3rd Ave.
Tonight
David Staten
Guitar & Vocals
No Cover Charge

Jimbo's

CARRY-OUT & DRIVE-THRU

Full Line of Domestic & Imported Beer & Wine

Coming Soon! Franks Sandwiches

522-1823

1301 3rd Ave.

522-9297

Stop By the "Top It Off"

Halloween
Drawing

Register
"NOW"
for a

$10.00 gift certificate

Drawing Oct. 30th
during the "Top It Off"
open house

You need not be present to win

A Marshall University DECA
Sponsored Activity

MU Souvenir Mug

(comes with lid)

Reg. $1.15 SALE $0.59

Ban Roll-On

1.5 OUNCE

Reg. $2.09 SALE $1.39

20% OFF on Revlon Products

Except hair care products

BIC DISPOSABLE SHAVERS

5 PACK

Reg. $1.19 SALE $0.79

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY
BOOKSTORE

SPORTS '81

Sports count towards President's Cup

Intramurals featuring 'tube' water polo

By Jeff Morris

A goalie goes high into the air to make a save. The game is not soccer this time but co-recreational inner-tube water polo and the goalie must remain seated on his inner-tube for the block to count.

Thomas A. Lovins, director of intramurals and recreational services, said the intramural sport can be witnessed at Gullickson Hall pool every Tuesday and Thursday at 8 and 8:30 p.m.

Patti A. Bostic, intramural activities supervisor, said the sport has really gained popularity since points earned in it and other co-recreational sports now count on the President's Cup standings.

Lovins said the President's Cup is a trophy presented every year to each fraternity, residence hall, women's group and independent team which earns the most points in their divisions in the intramural point system.

Bostic said co-recreational inner-tube water polo teams consist of three men and three women with one player always serving as goalie. Bostic said players must remain seated on their inner tubes during the game to avoid a penalty free throw.

Bostic said water polo has two 10 minute halves with a three minute intermission. She said the game starts with players lined up on opposite ends of the pool. The referee begins the contest by throwing the ball into play and blowing his whistle.

Bostic said players can take shots at the goal in any area except for the five yard dead zone surrounding the goalie. Players are allowed to tackle opponents who have possession of the ball provided they stay out of the goalie's zone.

Tuesday evening the combined forces of the Pikes and Tri-Sigma defeated the Lambda Chi and Phi Mu 1-0.

Ann Pickering, a Phi Mu participant, said there were some advantages of combining the sexes in co-recreational sports.

"It's fun putting us on the same team," she said. The guys are faster and stronger and it makes a quicker game.

Pickering said the game was physically demanding but at the same time enjoyable.

"It really kills your arms, and the inner-tube is so bulky its hard to stay on but it's a lot of fun," she said.

Bostic said the whole idea of intramurals was for people to have a good time.

"This is a good spectator sport for people to learn what intramurals are all about," she said.

Bostic said just by watching water polo one can tell people are having fun.

"Everyone seems to enjoy it more because it gives guys and girls a chance to play together," Bostic said.

Marshall kickers have two games left

By Randy Rorrer

Somebody popped the Marshall soccer team's balloon. Tonight it will take a patched-up version against Ohio University which has plenty of pins of its own.

Last week at this time, the soccer team had come off two big road victories and it had a chance to achieve its preseason goals.

Its goals were to win half its games and to finish in the upper half of the conference standings. The two road wins gave the team an overall 6-7-1 record and a 2-3-1 record in the conference, which put it one game out of third place in the eight-team conference.

With three games left on the schedule, all at home where Marshall had compiled a 4-1-1 record, the club had every reason to be optimistic about reaching its goals.

Unfortunately for Marshall, UT-Chattanooga had other ideas as it trounced its host 5-0 on Saturday. The loss pushed Marshall back to sixth place in the conference with only one conference game left and it can now only hope to win half its games.

By winning the final two games, Marshall can finish with an 8-8-1 record.

Marshall faces Ohio University in Fairfield Stadium tonight at 7:30. Marshall has never beaten OU and has never even scored against them in two previous meetings.

Ohio University head coach, Bob Bradley, said he has been pleased with his team's recent performances. In its last match, OU tied Ohio Wesleyan 1-1. Bradley said he was happy to have played that well against Wesleyan since they are nationally ranked by the NCAA in Division III.

Intramural FG kicking set

Intramural field goal kicking, which was rained out Monday, is rescheduled for Friday at 2 p.m., according to Thomas A. Lovins, director of intramurals and recreational services.

"Participants in the competition start on the 10 yard line and get three kicks to advance to the 20," Lovins said. "The kickers keep backing up 10 yards until a winner is decided."

Lambda Chi's Phil Leaberry won the fraternity division last year with a 40 yard kick and Steve Jones of eighth floor Holderby captured the residence hall division.

Paradise Island Productions Welcome

The Rossington Collins Band

Special Guest
Henry Paul Band & Balance

Huntington Civic Center
Tuesday, November 3
8:00 pm

Tickets are $7.50 in advance, $8.50 day of show — available at the Huntington Civic Center box office, all National Record Marts, Zwick's Music Store, the Record Shop, the Alcove or charge by phone 304-696-4400

Mini-Ads

ABORTION: Finest medical care available. Call 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. toll free, 1-800-438-8039.

ABORTIONS - 1-24 week terminations. Appts. made 7 days - Call free 1-800-321-0575.

COAT - leather, grey, silver fox trim, 16, $100. 736-9273 after 5 and weekends.

FEMALE ROOMMATE NEEDED: Marshall Plaza, two bedroom with three other girls. Second semester. 529-7266

FOR SALE OR TRADE - Yashica-Twin-lens reflex model 124G - $100. or trade for carousel slide tray. 453-3821.

LOST - Ladies brown, western style boots left in Jenkins Hall parking lot Sunday. Reward, call 696-5380.

ORGAN - Lowery, Super Genie, walnut, sacrifice $995. 736-9273 after 5 and weekends.

OVERSEAS JOBS - Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia. All fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free info. Write IJC Box 52- WV- / Corona Del Mar, CA 92625.

PART-OPPORTUNITY. FULL-TIME PRIDE. Earn extra money around your busy schedule and sell products you'll take pride in. Your Independent Shaklee Distributor will train. Phone 736-5931.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT: Send for free list of 400 books-Mountain Press, Box 9486-P, Huntington, W.Va. 25704.

DOWN TOWN CINEMAS

HUNTINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA

$7.50 DISCOUNT MATINEES
ALL SHOWS DAILY BEFORE 6 P.M.
FREE EVENING PARKING

KEITH-ALBEE 1-2-3-4 525-8311

Peter Falk and his red-hot California Dots... Together they're going for... ALL THE MARBLES
2:10-4:40-7:25-9:50

JACQUELINE BISSET
CANDICE BERGEN RICH and FAMOUS
2:15-4:45-7:10-9:45

She was lost from the moment she saw him. MERYL STREEP, The French Lieutenant's Woman
2:00-4:35-7:20-9:40

Two brothers trapped by a murder... ROBERT DE NIRO ROBERT DUVALL True Confessions
1:00-3:05-5:10-7:15-9:30

CAMELOT 1&2 525-3261

"HILARIOUS!" — Vincent Canby N.Y. Times
The most fun money can buy. Arthur
Dudley Moore Liza Minnelli John Gielgud
7:30 & 9:30

HELD OVER! 5th HIT WEEK! IT'LL MAKE YOU LAUGH... I'LL YOU CRY. Only When I Laugh
Marsha Mason Kristy McNichol
7:00 & 9:30

CINEMA 525-9211

I lost my job, my house, my Rolls Royce, my family left me... what else can possibly go wrong? George Segal "Hi Dad!"
7:15 & 9:15 CARBON COPY